1. Applicant's election with traverse of the election of species in the reply filed on June 7, 2004 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that there is not a serious burden on the part of the Office in examining the non-elected species. This is not found persuasive because the non-elected species recite different features which, taken collectively, would impose a serious burden on the part of the Office to search for all of them.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 6-18 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on June 7, 2004.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 19, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kim et al in view of Dasher. Kim et al discloses the claimed invention except for the dust guard. Dasher teaches a condenser having an air flow path therefor and a grille 18 therefor. The grille 18 inherently functions as a dust guard. It would be obvious to provide Kim et al with a dust guard for the passage 60, in view of Dasher, for the purpose of preventing dust from entering the passage where the condenser is located.

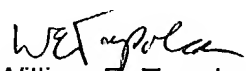

Art Unit: 3744

5. Claims 2-4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
